

TESTED
Bryant 233

Bryant 233

There is a new sports boat brand clamouring for your attention. Alex Smith gets a British exclusive with the first UK test of the Bryant 233...

Bryant is not yet well known in the UK. It showcased its first two boats back in September 2009 at the Southampton Boat Show, when Clipper Marine took along the 210 and the 233. And while they may have been bow riders and therefore subject to the UK boater's common disregard for them as little more than insubstantial summertime playthings, right from the start, the new importers were keen to reinforce what they considered the market-leading quality of Bryant boats. They believed that these latest bow rider imports deserved to enter the UK a good few rungs above the bottom end offerings and their express purpose at the show was to prove it.
